Change

By: Morgan Dunn

*Touched by words only seen in dreams and hurt by thoughts unsaid, Surrender into a deep slot left untouched by the dead.
 You have come to a place where a whisper is a screaming plea,
 Hold my hand and watch the clouds come over the crying sea.*

*With all the unknown things never seen, your stomach is filled with knots,
 Once ignored, you now see the souls of those who disappeared from our thoughts,
 Less memories come to mind and all that is left is a small voided space,
 The wind blows picking up the essence of those lost in this place.*

*Would you, could you, take back the hurtful things you never meant to say?
 And not be able to determine the grimness of the night, and the happiness of day.*

You can shout out to the loved ones you will leave behind, and not make a sound.

Invisible tears run down your cheek and never fall to the ground.

Grab onto the love held inside that was strong,

Make things right that once were wrong.

Reach out one more time and try to touch the past.

Don't let the most hurtful words be your last.

In Memory of Johnathan Riggle

FOREIGN EXCHANGE

Hadas Zadikar came to Northwest from Jolon, Isreal. She comments on how different life is in America, compared to her life at home. For fun in Isreal, Hadas likes to hang out with her friends at local coffee shops and dance clubs.

We hope Hadas had a very enjoyable stay in Ohio, and at Northwest!
